The element of wood, in the hands of The Portables skilled artisans, becomes the medium to showcase their talent. With education and experience measured in decades all requests are met with acknowledging nods. With apprenticeships under the tutelage of master craftsmen, quality workmanship is a matter of personal pride.

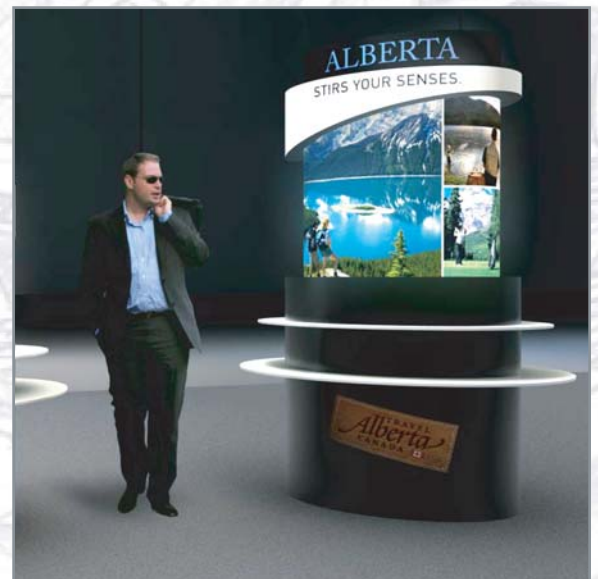

The Portables range of product offerings encompass Custom Exhibits, Retail Kiosks and Counters, POS displays, Lobbies, and Retail Environments. With these product offerings The Portables provides a host of support services to include structural design, CAD and 3D rendering, large-format graphics, and installation services.

At The Portables we partner with you to achieve your exhibit and event marketing objective. We feel the only way to do this is to challenge any preconceived notions. The Portables understands that we will never know your industry as well as you do, but with the knowledge gained through producing thousands of custom and portable exhibits, kiosks, and POS stands, we feel it appropriate to share this knowledge.

One of the typical situations we run into is when the client's criteria exceed their budget. Our approach is to ask which is more important, the criteria or the budget, and design accordingly. The design stage is where we will achieve a balance between criteria and budget.

Once a design has been completed, our real task begins. Engineering a custom solution involves paying attention to subtle intricacies. A project manager is assigned to every custom build. Their responsibility is to ensure that all aspects of the build are communicated to our clients.

Bringing to life a custom solution is a balance between functionality, cost considerations and aesthetic quality. Our design and engineering team work very closely with our logistics department. After all, once your custom solution is built, it still has to be packaged, shipped, set-up, and dismantled - on time and on budget. Our logistics department provides valuable input into the choice of materials and building methods to ensure that shipping weight and set-up time are both minimized.

The Portables is the only Canadian exhibit company with a true national presence and offers offices across Canada, coverage in every major exhibit center, and a worldwide partner network. This means we can handle your last minute needs, no matter how remote the location. And, because of the size and strength of our 80+ person team, we have the financial and human resources to be there when you need us most.
